I entered the wrong location

Correct it if editing is available. Otherwise, contact the support service or concerned authority and provide your complaint number and correct location.

My complaint may be a duplicate

Check whether an existing complaint refers to the same problem. If it describes a different issue, explain the difference or follow the review instructions.

My complaint went to the wrong department

Check the complaint details and use the correction or support process if the assignment appears incorrect.

My complaint has not been resolved

Check the latest status and applicable official timeline. Follow the authority’s escalation or appeal process if available.

- How do I upload a photograph?

- How do I check my complaint status?
- What does “In Progress” mean?

The assistant uses available information to guide you. If a government rule, deadline or contact detail cannot be verified, it should explain that the information is unavailable and direct you to the appropriate official source.

11. Frequently Asked Questions

What is CivicFix AI?

It helps citizens report civic problems, submit complaints, track progress and obtain guidance about the complaint process.

Can I complain about a pothole?

You can report potholes where road-related complaints are supported. Provide the location, a clear description and a photograph if possible.

Do I need to upload a photograph?

A photograph can help explain the problem. Whether it is required depends on the complaint form and its instructions.

Can I submit a complaint without typing?

You can use voice input if that feature is available on the portal.

How do I know whether my complaint was registered?

Look for the confirmation message or complaint number provided after successful submission.

Why does the platform check for repeated complaints?

It helps identify reports that may describe the same problem. A match does not prove that two complaints are identical.

Who will resolve my complaint?

The relevant department or authority examines the problem and decides what action is required.

How long will resolution take?

The timeline depends on the complaint type and the rules of the responsible authority. Check the official timeline for your complaint.

What if my complaint is marked resolved but the problem remains?

Check the remarks and follow the portal’s reopening or review procedure, if available. Otherwise, contact the authority with your complaint number and evidence.

Can I check my complaint without a complaint number?

The portal may let you find complaints through your account history. Otherwise, follow its instructions for recovering the reference.

Does submitting a complaint guarantee a fix?

No. The complaint must be examined by the responsible authority, which determines the appropriate action under the applicable procedure.

What if I cannot find an answer?

Check the relevant official government website or contact the responsible department using its published support details.
